

PROUD TO BE PART OF NIKE'S TEAM FOR OVER A DECADE

For more than ten years, OESCO clients Paul Shick and Linda Molholm have helped customers find just the right fit at their jobs as assistants in the Nike Beaverton Employee store fitting room.

In 1997, Linda joined the Nike team, followed by Paul in 1998. Before Paul was hired, he had heard that the Nike store was "a good place to work" and was eager to become an employee.

When he isn't helping customers in the fitting room, Paul can be found stocking shelves, hanging clothes, or tidying the shoe section. But ask him what his favorite part of the job is and he'll tell you he likes "being up front with the people" and bagging purchases for happy customers.

On Linda's days off, she enjoys volunteering at the Merlo Station High School daycare in Beaverton where she has worked in the toddler room for the past seven years.

Both Linda and Paul are supported by OESCO staff George Paulson, who meets with each client once a week to discuss work. "They both do an excellent job," George says about his clients.
